

DECORATIVE COUNCIL CONCRETE AWARDS Las Vegas USA

panDOMO®

Flooring and wall surface solution specialist, Honestone, has cleaned up at the internationally renowned Decorative Concrete Council Awards 2013 in the United States.

The Australian company won the Overlays Under ¼" > 500SF section as well as second place in the Vertical > 5000SF for the outstanding work performed at St Barnabas Church in Broadway earlier this year.

Pandomo Wall was used on the curved walls in the worship areas, and Pandomo FloorPlus was used over Ardex A38 screed on the floors in the worship area and meeting rooms downstairs.

The Awards are part of the reputable American Society of Concrete Contractors, who strive to "enhance the capabilities of those who build with concrete".

The Anglican church, which Honestone helped beautify, was burnt to the ground on May 10 in 2006. Six years on, the Church was rebuilt and recently re-opened its doors to the community.

The church was nurtured back to life with the help of architects Francis-Jones Morehen Thorp, Buildcorp Contracting NSW and subcontractors including Honestone.

Honestone director Rick Hendriks said his team of experts came on board three months prior to project completion to ensure the best, timely, and professional seamless floor and wall solutions were utilised.

The job was so perfectly achieved it has now gone down in history as a dual award winning project.
